

WHY CHOOSE A MASTER'S IN ARTS ADMINISTRATION?

The Master of Arts in Arts Administration (MAAA) prepares students for careers in all facets of arts management. With coursework taught by well respected researchers and seasoned practitioners, the degree provides a bridge between theory and practice that will help you meet the challenges of today and anticipate the challenges ahead.

- 45-credit-hour degree
- Complete in 3-4 semesters (part-time options also available)
- 280-hour internship
- Three 50-hour practicums

ROOTED IN COMMUNITY

The MAAA program prioritizes people and supports each student in their personal journey as an arts administrator. With small cohort and class sizes, you will develop long-lasting relationships with students, staff, and professors. The program embraces this by referring to our stakeholders as members of our FaMAAAly.

CUTTING EDGE DUAL DEGREES

These one-of-a-kind, innovative, and multi-disciplinary programs enable you to combine interests and broaden your learning experience within O'Neill, across IU, or with one of our global partners. Explore how arts administration intersects with other fields with the following dual degrees:

- MAAA-MPA (Master of Public Affairs)
- MAAA-MAFE (Master of Arts in Folklore and Ethnomusicology)
- MAAA-MMHS (Master of Museum and Heritage Studies—in partnership with Australian National University)
- MAAA-MCPAM (Master of Arts in Cultural Policy and Arts Management—in partnership with University College Dublin)

ACCESS FUNDING AND A NETWORK OF ARTS LEADERS

The MAAA program has an extensive network of alumni who generously support the student experience through mentorship, guest speaking, internship opportunities, scholarships, and more.

The MAAA Program also prioritizes connecting you with resources that enable you to make the most of your time in Bloomington. Funding opportunities include:

- O'Neill Fellowship (automatic consideration if you apply by the priority deadline)
- Service Corps Fellowship & campus part-time opportunities
- O'Neill Continuing Student Fellowships
- Wang Fellowship to support internship experiences

"I've just been absolutely amazed at how supportive everyone is. It doesn't matter who I reach out to here at O'Neill, the individual attention I get, which is truly sincere, has just blown my mind."
